

ABSTRACT

A dual-screen organic electroluminescent display device is made by encapsulating two independent conventional organic electroluminescent displays inside two substrates to reduce its weight and thickness. Meanwhile, only one encapsulation step is carried out and encapsulation cost would be lower.

10

15

20